DELAY THE NAVY BILL

Decision Expected to Prevent
An Embarrassing
Discussion

By William S. Neal

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Congressional debate upon international relations and the American Navy in particular will be curtailed as much as possible during the London arms conference by withholding the annual navy appropriation bill from the House and the World Court protocol from the Senate, it was disclosed today.

The decision upon the part of administration leaders of the House to delay the naval supply bill is expected to prevent an embarrassing discussion of President Hoover's action in holding up construction of three cruisers and the ever troublesome question of parity with Great Britain.

Leaders in the "big Navy bloc," including Rep. Britten (R) of Illinois, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, had already made known their intention of questioning the wisdom and authority of the President's action on the 15-cruiser program for which Congress authorized $274,000,000.

Christmas Day of Joy For Bristol Residents

Christmas was celebrated in the usual manner here yesterday and on Christmas eve.

It was a day of family gatherings and home comings and most of the time was spent at the various homes in town. There was little or no activity on the streets and not a single arrest was made by Bristol officers for disorder of any kind or nature.

Christmas eve, the community Christmas tree sponsored by the Legion, Rotary, Exchange and Mill street business men was lighted and attracted much attention.

At midnight service was held in St. James's Church and yesterday morning there was service in the Methodist and also Zion Lutheran Church.

At the Methodist church at six o'clock there was a very impressive Christmas morning service.

The entire interior of the edifice was illuminated by candle light and the choir sang "Silent Night" as the members proceeded from the Sunday School room into the main auditorium carrying lighted candles.

There was a short sermon by the pastor, Rev. George F. Hess, and then the 200 or more in attendance each proceeded to the altar where a small candle was lighted from a larger one held by the pastor. A complete circle was then made around the interior of the church as the pastor took his position in the center. "Joy to the World" was sung by the congregation just as daylight was breaking and then the auditorium was flooded with light.

The Christmas party for the little folks followed under the direction of the Sunday School class of Mrs. George Miller.

VISIT HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and son, Heston, of Trenton, N. J., spent Sunday in Bristol, visiting their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Otter street.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Harvison, of Otter street, had as Sunday guests their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hunt and son, Bertram and daughters, Gertrude and Florence, of Springfield, and Edward Fields, of Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Thompson and baby, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Miss Harriet Ancker, of Tuckerton, N. J., are passing the holidays at the home of Mrs. Thompson's and Miss Ancker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ancker, of Cedar street.

ENTERTAINS

Miss Marian Smith, of Radcliffe street, entertained at cards and a dance in the Travel Club home, Cedar street, Monday evening. Forty guests were entertained at this delightful social event.

VISIT HERE

Sergeant Robert Orms, Marine Barracks, Philadelphia Navy Yard, and Dillard Mercer, U. S. S. Pennsylvania, Philadelphia Navy Yard, spent Christmas as guests of Mrs. Caleb Rue, of Edgely.

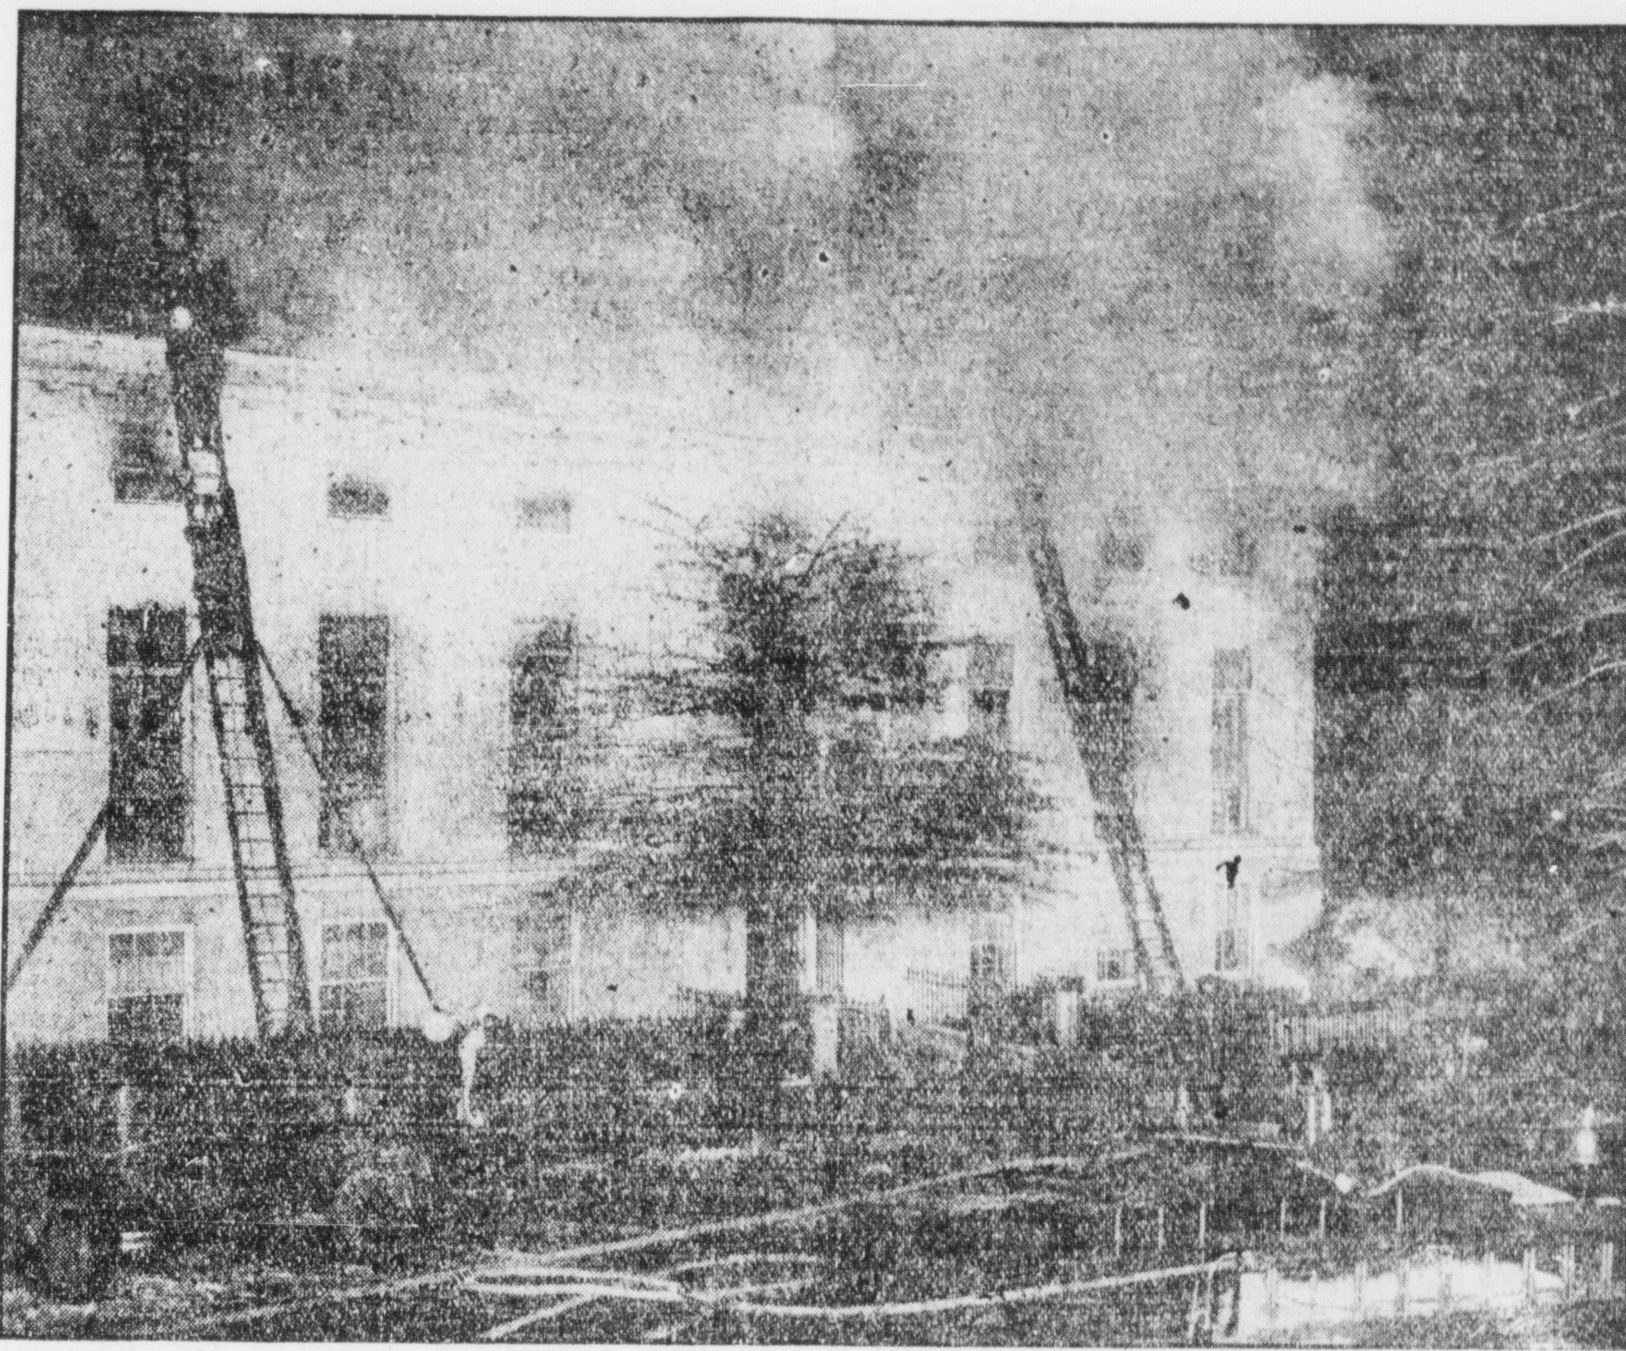

CARD PARTY

Chickens and ducks will be among the prizes at the card party to be staged Monday night at the Newportville fire station. The public is invited to attend.

First Picture of the White House Fire

This picture was taken Christmas Eve, as firemen battled the blaze which swept the executive offices of the White House. Smoke is seen pouring from the windows. Damage estimated roughly at $100,000 was caused by the consuming flames, which were started, it is said, by defective wiring.

President Hoover was host at a Christmas party in the White House, when word was flashed to him of the blaze. Donning a coat over his evening attire Mr. Hoover watched the progress of the blaze from the roof of the colonnade which connects the White House with the offices.

MANY NEW RECORDS ARE MADE BY AVIATORS

SURPRISING RECORDS

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(INS)—A number of new records were established in the world of aviation during 1929.

At Clatsop, England, on September 12, Squadron Leader Augustus H. Orlebar of the Royal Air Force succeeded in driving his Supermarine Rolls-Royce plane around a three kilometer race course at the unheard of speed of 357.7 miles an hour. This was 1.9 miles an hour faster than a previous speed record set by the same flyer on the same course several days earlier. Prior to Orlebar's flight, the air speed record was 318.4 miles an hour established in 1927 by Major di Bernardi of Italy.

On August 29, the ill-fated Jack Reid established a new solo endurance record of 37 hours before he fell asleep at his controls and crashed to his death near the Cleveland Airport. Reid took off during the National Air Races.

Flying a Lockheed-Vega monoplane, Capt. Frank Hawks, made two non-stop flights across the continent beating by many hours, the previous records for such flights. He covered the distance from Los Angeles to New York in slightly more than 18 hours, and from New York to Los Angeles in slightly more than 19 hours. His average speed per hour for the round trip was in excess of 150 miles.

Two comparatively unknown pilots, Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, electrified the world when they succeeded in keeping a tiny Curtiss Robin plane above the St. Louis airport for 420 hours and 21 minutes. They were refueled during flight by another plane with a hose attachment and not once during their prolonged stay in the air did anything go wrong with the mechanism of their plane.

The motor of the ship was still functioning perfectly when the plane was brought down to earth at the insistence of airport officials who felt that the strain would soon begin to tell on the two young pilots. In establishing their remarkable record, O'Brine and Jackson left far behind them the other records made by refueled planes during the year.

A new non-stop distance record of approximately 5,500 miles was established by Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, of France, when they flew from Paris to Tsitsihar, Manchuria.

DEMAND DEVELOPS IN CONGRESS FOR ERECTION OF NEW EXECUTIVE OFFICE, SEPARATED FROM THE WHITE HOUSE; RESULT OF TUESDAY'S FIRE

Britten and Johnson Among Leaders in the Movement For New Structure for Use of Office Staff — Hoover
Listens Without Comment

By George E. Durno

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—A direct result of Tuesday night's disastrous fire at the White House, a strong demand developed in Congress today for the erection of a new, and totally divorced executive office.

Reps. Fred A. Britten (R) of Ill., and Royal S. Johnson (R) of South Dakota, were among the leaders in the movement for a separate building for the presidential office staff, and they were joined by a number of other prominent Republican members.

It appeared that the Christmas eve fire which ruined the west wing of the White House had given a real impetus to the proposal that a new structure, located adjacent to, but apart from the main dwelling of the presidential family, be built. The holidays had taken many members of Congress back to their homes, but those who could be reached concurred in the idea that number 1600 Pennsylvania avenue should be a residence only.

President Hoover viewed all this discussion meanwhile without comment. For the next three or four days he will use the Lincoln study, one removed from the end room of the upper floor in the east wing, as an office. In the end room he plans to lodge his personal stenographers and clerks.

George Akerson, secretary to the President, will hold forth in the corridor, using the Lincoln cabinet table as a desk. Walter Newton and Lawrence Richey, the other two secretaries, temporarily will use the two rooms opposite.

Col. U. S. Grant, superintendent of public buildings and grounds, said from 60 to 90 days should be consumed in repairing the damaged west wing. He and his subordinates promised an accurate estimate of the cost by noon today.

The first of next week, Mr. Hoover will move into the office of General John J. Pershing—a little used suite—in the State and War Department, just across the street.

A readjustment of office space will permit the more necessary of his staff to follow him. In the meantime, the basement floor of the executive office was being dried out to permit occupancy by the general staff. The east room was turned over to reporters and (Continued on Page Four)

NEWTOWN HAS MUCH OF HISTORIC INTEREST

Spot Decided Upon by William Penn in Year 1682

HAS MANY OLD HOUSES

NEWTOWN, Dec. 26.—The story is related that in 1682 William Penn in searching for locations for towns came to the land occupied by the tribe of Indians called the Neshaminy on the banks of the Neshaminy Creek. Traveling a little further he was attracted by the number of springs and the fertile land on the bank of what is now Newtown Creek. He said, "Here will I make me my new town," and in that way Newtown derived its name.

About 1703 the first to own and live permanently in the town were Stephen Twining, William Backman, Thomas Hilborn, Ezra Crossdale and James Yates. Many of their descendants are still living in or near Newtown.

Previous to 1725 the village consisted of some eight or ten log houses, situated, mostly, on what is now State Street. The first house in Newtown was built by William Penn's personal orders near the corner of State and Mercer Streets. Cornelius Spring was living there in 1692 but he, very probably, was not the first to occupy it.

This house, one of the stopping places for the stage coaches when they were running between Newtown and New York City, was then as now called the "Bird in Hand" getting its name from the sign painted by the town artist, Edward Hicks.

Another house almost as old is the much modernized home of George W. Brown on South State street. In this house in 1781 lived John Hart, at that time treasurer of Bucks County.

The county seat of Bucks County was in Newtown from 1725 to 1812 when it was moved to Doylestown. The building owned by the First National Bank and Trust Company and standing just north of the bank was the Public Office Building when the Court was in Newtown. The first floor was divided by 20-inch walls into four rooms, the two north rooms were the vaults. The house had iron shutters and iron window frames, many of which are still to be seen.

Among the many more old buildings of interest one might mention Washington's Headquarters and the Presbyterian Church, which was used as a hospital after the Battle of Trenton, the Hessian prisoners being cared for there. When remodeling the church some years later buttons from a Hessian officer's coat were found under the floor, the supposition being that those dying were buried there.

There are three hotels, the Brick Hotel and Temperance House being very old. The Brick Hotel was formerly called the Red Lion and was used as a public house as early as 1740. The brick for the east end was brought from England. The Temperance House, the oldest hotel in (Continued on Page Four)

Christmas Party To Be Held by Travel Club

The Christmas party of the Bristol Travel Club will be held tomorrow evening at the Travel Club home, Cedar street. "The Pageant of the Months" will be given.

The officers will be the hostesses; with the meeting in charge of the dramatic and social committees, headed by Mrs. Theodore Megargee and Mrs. Harry Headley.

Each member of the club is permitted to invite a guest.

KINDERGARTEN TOTS HAVE A JOLLY PARTY

Christmas Affair Takes Place
At Andalusia, With Santa Present

PERSONAL NEWS NOTES

ANDALUSIA, Dec. 26.—The Andalusia Kindergarten had a very interesting program on Friday morning when a Christmas party was held. The little scholars, numbering about seventeen, marched around the table after the opening exercises had been finished, then in a large circle, after which some of the children recited poems. They also sang three Christmas hymns.

Santa Claus visited the tots and brought them oranges, and candies, and the girls received dolls and the boys received a box containing four little toys. Mrs. Wayne Buckman, who is teaching these children in the absence of Miss Oliver, who is ill, is to be congratulated on the way these little ones took their parts in this Christmas entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coburn and daughter, Jessie, of Germantown; and Mr. and Mrs. Inseho, of Philadelphia; were Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. Mary Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fries and Miss Helen Strycker and Leslie Temple, of Philadelphia, were Sunday evening guests of Mrs. Mary Jackson and family.

Robert Bracken, who is a student at West Chester, is home with his parents for the Christmas holidays.

The Sunday School of the Church of the Redeemer will hold its Christmas entertainment on Friday, December 27th, in King Hall.

Miss Florence Foster, Miss Stella Foster and Mrs. William Keplar spent Saturday in Philadelphia shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. John Curtis entertained friends from Philadelphia on Sunday.

George Ashton had the misfortune of falling down on Tuesday morning and sprained his hip.

Mrs. Emma Fries, Charles Fries, Robert Fries and Miss Dorothy Trummer visited friends in Doylestown on Sunday.

On Thursday evening, Dec. 19th, the P. O. of A. Lodge, held its usual meeting. The regular order of business was transacted. After the meeting a circle was formed and everyone had to recite a poem. Several of the members were dressed as children as had previously been planned. Santa Claus was ushered in and presented each one with a small gift and then coffee and cakes were served. It was late when the happy party adjourned.

George C. Rogers Dies In Philadelphia Hospital

George C. Rogers, husband of Mabel R. Dickert, of 6231 Lancaster avenue, Philadelphia, died after being ill in the hospital for the past three weeks.

Mr. Rogers was thirty-six years of age and was formerly a resident of Bristol, having lived on North Radcliffe street. The funeral will be held from Andrew Bair's funeral parlors, 3925 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Friday. Friends may call Thursday evening.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 26.—(INS)—Fearing an outbreak of convicts in Rhode Island State's Prison at Howard, an extra detail of guards today patrolled the walls and prison yard, following a Christmas night demonstration of shouting from the cells over the failure to present the annual motion picture show. Eighteen of the leaders of the demonstration were placed in solitary confinement. Investigation, authorities said, disclosed the demonstration was inspired by news which filtered in of the recent outbreak at Auburn, N. Y., Prison.

REDUCTION WITHOUT RELIEF

Congress may cut $225,000,000 from the taxes imposed upon the people, as suggested by the president and Secretary Mellon, or by whatever amount congress may ultimately decide, without really relieving the taxpayer of an appreciable burden. That relief can only come from the adoption of economy by the states, counties and municipalities.

The statistics of state and municipal expenditures and state, county and municipal bonded indebtedness show that during the last fifteen years expenditures and bond issues have increased at a headlong rate. Unless a halt is called chaos and ruinous taxation appear to be inevitable.

Many of the manufacturing cities are beginning to realize the results of unrestrained spending. The increase in taxation in these centers has caused manufacturers to transfer their activities to rural districts which have not thus far joined in the saturnalia of extravagance. This and the low wages that prevail in the South account for the migration of New England's textile industry to the South.

Even the rural communities are affected, although in the case of the latter the higher taxes are almost invariably the result of highway improvements and erection of school buildings. And in many cases the advantages of good roads offset the tax cost.

Though they may not know it or will not admit it the taxpayers themselves, because of their insatiable appetite for public improvements, are chiefly responsible for the present high cost of government.

THE FAMILIAR HARNESS

Few of us would be much at ease or of much use if left entirely to our own devices. Part of our birthright is a natural inertia or even laziness; take away whips and spur and most of us would be well content with browsing.

This would be bad for the world and considerably worse for ourselves. It is difficult enough to keep out of mischief at all times, and with nothing better to do, mischief would multiply. For this reason necessity has us all by the nose, and work we must, for our natural, moral and spiritual welfare. And in spite of occasional revolt, most of us are happy in labor than in idleness.

Most of us also need the urge and guidance of the daily job, with all its regular responsibilities and obligations. We need the alarm clock and the morning train and the accusing face of the time clock. Few of us could hold a profitable peace on the impetus of our own self-directed energy.

For this reason, the end of vacation finds us regarding the familiar harness of the daily grind with some small affection. We have had a good time and some relief from irritations, but on the whole we are not unwilling to return to the benevolent autocracy of our job.

Few things are more useless than a family tree after a financial reverse.

Another pathetic plight was that of the beautiful bathing creature who actually wanted to swim and was rescued six times in an afternoon.

SCREAMED WITH PAIN, KONJOLA TO THE RESCUE

Lady Never Expected to Be Well Again—Rheumatism And Neuritis Conquered

MRS. ADAM LILLARD

"What a wonderful medicine Konjola is!" said Mrs. Adam Lillard, R. F. D. No. 1, Marietta, Pa. "When I realize that I am rid of the awful pains of rheumatism and neuritis and that my nerves are quiet, it seems like a dream. Most every night the pains in my back and legs were so terrible that I would awake screaming with pain. The entire household would be aroused. I suffered day and night more than tongue can tell."

"I had taken as many as ten bottles of numerous medicines, but not a one did me a particle of good. Konjola did the work in just three weeks. My organs of digestion and elimination were stimulated; my system was cleansed; and then, day by day, my pain decreased. Now I am like a different person, entirely free from both rheumatism and neuritis. Konjola is building me up in weight, strength and ambition."

Konjola is sold in Bristol at Hoffman's Cut Rate store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout the United States. Write for a free trial bottle and full particulars to this entire section.—(Adv.)

Piggery Injunction Is Made Permanent

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 26.—In an opinion handed down in the court of Common Pleas by Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Stroudsburg, the Court ruled that the injunction be made permanent in the case of Roman Soboleski and Anna Soboleski, operators of a piggery in Warminster township.

This case is one of the numerous piggery cases in the county courts this year. The case was appealed from the decision of the Justice of the Peace and returned to the county court.

In the opinion filed by Judge Shull it is decreed that the defendants abate the nuisance within sixty days of this date; that injunction issue restraining said defendants from conducting or maintaining a piggery on the manner this piggery has been maintained and any manner contrary to the provision of law and the regulations of the Department of Health of this Commonwealth; that this decree be entered nisi, as by the equity rules provided; and if no exceptions be filed as by the equity rules provided that at the end of ten days from the notice of filing of this decree nisi, counsel for plaintiff shall prepare a final decree in accordance with this opinion and submit the same to the Court for approval.

Tuning in on the Talkies by Walhill

THE "best minds" in moviedom seem to be concentrating on the task of making one night club look different from another.

"The Tree of Knowledge" has provided the movies with "The Sap" and "The Nut." Rin Tin Tin has the bark.

After long sleep as a stage personage "Hindle Wakes" to find the screen talking and herself a dumb photoplay.

Some "Dumb-Bells in Ermine" parade their finery in proof of "The Weakness of Men."

If "Clothes Make the Woman" there is promise of a more complete job in the new fashions.

"The Loves of Letty" make merry with Charlotte Greenwood in a new Vitaphone talkie and in the end they chorus: "So Long Letty."

Myrna Loy is one of several girls to whom Frank Fay makes love "Under a Texas Moon."

"One Increasing Purpose" is fine if provision is made to care for the increase.

"Pleasure Before Business" accounts for some successes and many more failures.

For "Double Feature" Day "On Your Toes" "Those Who Dance"

No one man dare undertake to say "What's Wrong With Women."

"The Girl Who Wouldn't Work" went into the movies in 1925 and, with "The Girl Who Wouldn't Quit," she's still there.

photographers for a temporary press room. This meant a temporary closing of the White House to visitors, and also presaged a material reduction in the number of engagements the President can keep during the rest of the week.

Britten and Johnson were the prime movers for a separate office.

"Any repairs," declared Britten, "should be made with an idea of retaining only the architectural beauties of the house. It seems to me the White House should be a residence for the President and his family, with no thought of further continuing the offices."

"In my opinion," said Johnson, "the home and the office ought to be divorced. I favor immediate construction of a close-by building to house the staff."

Both agreed an ideal location would be on Jackson place, half a block removed from the White House. The Government owns all the property on the short street—now occupied by old-fashioned residences converted into office buildings—and condemnation proceedings could be instituted immediately.

They favored a handsome structure with floor space adequate to care for an even larger corps of clerks than President Hoover has gathered. The latter, upon his installation in office, spent $65,000 in renovating the basement floor of the west wing so as to care for the trebled staff.

Secretary Akerson, although non-committal on the subject, admitted that within the next four or five years such a building would have to be seriously considered.

Rep. Ed Hull (R) of Peoria, Ill., was another who endorsed the proposal.

Newtown Has Much of Historic Interest

town, was built in 1722. The original part was the present bar room and the room back of it.

The population of the town is about 2,000.

The churches are Presbyterian, Episcopal, Methodist, Baptist, Friends' Meeting, Catholic and colored Methodist and Baptist. There is a high school in the town and the George School is just below the town.

The leading industries are a pottery conducted by a Trenton firm and the A. W. & W. M. Watson lumber yard, sash and door factory, two fine new bank buildings, the First National Bank and Trust Company which was organized in 1864 in a room what is now the Musser building at the corner of State and Washington avenue, and the Newtown Title and Trust Company.

The library, which is claimed to be the oldest public library in Bucks County, was started in 1769 in a small building erected on a lot donated by Isaac W. Hicks on Court street between Penn and Mercer streets. In 1911 the present library building was erected and the free reading room, a gift of Joseph Barnsley, was opened to the public.

The borough was incorporated in 1834. The borough officials are as follows: Chief Burgess, Reuben P.

Kester; borough secretary, Robert M. Crossdale; borough treasurer, W. Aubrey Merrick; justice of the peace, Robert M. Crossdale; assessor first ward, Watson T. Hillborn; assessor second ward, Stephen M. Vandegrift. The Councilmen are: John Chambers, president; Robert Craig, Norman Vandersdalen; D. Russell Bond; David Watson and Granville Stradling. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Macchette, of 520 Radcliffe street, will have as New Year's Day guests, Mr. and Mrs. Z. Chiquoine, of Tacony.
